

Integrated MedCraft Acquires APLS Product Line from Novipax

East Hampton, CT, December 23, 2024 – Integrated MedCraft LLC, a leading provider of medical devices and therapies, is excited to announce the acquisition of the APLS (Absorbent Patient Litter System) product line from Novipax. This strategic acquisition will enhance Integrated MedCraft's offerings in emergency medical transport and hypothermia treatment solutions, particularly for military, EMS, mass casualty, and search and rescue operations.

The APLS product line includes portable, disposable litters and blankets designed to quickly and safely transport injured personnel while containing blood and bodily fluids. These litters are lightweight, compact, and feature thermal properties to maintain patient warmth during transport.

"This acquisition aligns with our commitment to providing innovative and reliable medical solutions to the Patriots who need them the most," said Rick Barber, COO of Integrated MedCraft. "The APLS product line will significantly expand our capabilities in emergency medical transport, ensuring that first responders and medical personnel have access to the best tools for saving lives."

"This marks an exciting chapter for the APLS brand as it transitions to Integrated MedCraft, whose expertise and commitment to first responders and military personnel will ensure the product line continues to thrive and save lives," said J.P. Zurek, VP of Growth and Marketing at Novipax.

Integrated MedCraft looks forward to adding the APLS product line to our Forward® brand of innovative first responder products as we continuing to support the health and safety of military personnel and first responders worldwide.
